What is the death penalty?

By Milan Presse, France Télévisions, 2018

Language: English

Duration: 1:40 minutes

In certain countries, the law authorizes the execution of a convicted person: the death penalty. Those condemned to death are often guilty of very serious crimes: murdering several people for example. But if the law authorizes the death penalty, does that mean it's legal to kill somebody?

Die Todesstrafe in den USA | ZDFinfo Doku

Von ZDFinfo Dokus & Reportagen, 2017

Sprache: Deutsch

Länge: 7 Minuten

Die USA gehört zu den letzten westlichen Ländern, in denen die Todesstrafe noch nicht abgeschafft wurde. Reporter Thorsten Eppert will verstehen, warum die Amerikaner daran festhalten. Er reist nach Texas, wo er einen zum Tode Verurteilten besucht, und mit Befürwortern und Gegnern der Todesstrafe spricht.

The State of the Death Penalty in the United States

By Law Shelf Educational Media

Language: English

Duration: 8:20 minutes

Capital punishment in the United States is an ever-evolving issue. Early in our country's history, the death penalty was applied to seemingly trivial offenses like trading with Native Americans and horse theft. On the other hand, many states today have completely abolished the death penalty. These two extremes illustrate the ambivalent relationship the US legal system has with the death penalty.

Lessons From death row inmates

TED-Speech by David Dow, Texas, 2012

Language: English

Duration: 18 minutes

David R. Dow is an esteemed professor at the University of Houston Law Centre who has dedicated his life to defending death row inmates.

In his 2012 TED speech, he talks not about the ethics of capital punishment, but on where the ideologies of pro-death penalty and anti-death penalty campaigners meet: on the topic of intervention.

Execution

Death Row : The Final 24 Hours \(Documentary\)

By WAG TV for Discovery Channel

Duration: 00:47 h

If you know you will die in 24 hours, what thoughts will go through your mind? You might not get the chance to ponder those thoughts, because nobody of us knows exactly when or where he will die. But prisoners sentenced to death know that. It might sound ironic, but they are few of the people that can have the last 24 hours to think about their life.

This documentary takes a look at exactly what goes through the mind of criminals and prisoners during their last 24 hours of sentence. And how the walk from the death row prison to the execution looks like. The documentary also takes a look at what passes through the mind of the executioner and police officers that need to pass the sentence. It is not easy sleeping at night knowing you need to kill somebody the next day. But somehow, these people find a way to do that.

Life and Death Row – Execution day For one of the youngest men on death row in Texas

By BBC, 2014

Language: English

About Richard Cobb and Anthony Haynes, Texas

Duration: 00:58 h

Series telling the story of capital punishment through the eyes of young people whose lives have been shaped by it. With unprecedented access inside prison walls, it discovers what it's like to live with the threat of the death chamber, as well as hearing from victims and their families and the family of those on death row - some praying for execution, some hoping for a reprieve. Each episode focuses on a key aspect of the system - execution, trial and appeal.

For two of the youngest men on death row in Texas, execution day has arrived. Victim Nikki Daniels reflects on her kidnapping ordeal by murderer Richard Cobb and battles with her conflicting desires to forgive him, while the mother of death row inmate

Anthony Haynes fights to use the final 72 hours to halt her son's execution for the murder of a police officer.

Executions

and

Fourteen days in May part 2

By BBC 1, 1987

Language: English

Duration: 00:43 h

Fourteen Days in May is a documentary directed by Paul Hamann. The program recounts the final days before the execution of Edward Earl Johnson, an American prisoner convicted of rape and murder. Johnson protested his innocence and claimed that his confession had been made under duress. He was executed in Mississippi's gas chamber on May 20, 1987.

The documentary crew, given access to the prison warden, guards and chaplain and to Johnson and his family, filmed the last days of Johnson's life in detail. The documentary argues against the death penalty and maintains that capital punishment is disproportionately applied to African-Americans convicted of crimes against whites. The program features attorney Clive Stafford Smith, a noted advocate against capital punishment.

The Mass execution

Links see below

By BBC, 2018

Language: English

Duration: Four episodes, each 60 to 70 minutes

The latest instalment, The Mass Execution – a run of four films – takes a look at the legal mechanics of capital punishment in the USA, focusing on the unprecedented move by the state of Arkansas in 2017 to schedule eight executions in ten days in order to beat an expiry date on Midazolam, one of the drugs used in lethal injections.

Episode One

Sorry – works only in the UK. Let me know if you have another link. Thank you.

In this episode we meet death row inmate Stacey Johnson, who is scheduled to be executed for a crime that he claims he didn't commit. With just weeks to go, his wife Judy and stepdaughter Tasha are doing all they can to stop the execution from going ahead.

We also meet Susan, whose mother was murdered in a home invasion by inmate Don Davis in 1990. Susan has been waiting for Davis's execution for decades and wants justice to finally be carried out so she and her family can find peace.

Episode Two

Sorry – works only in the UK. Let me know if you have another link. Thank you.

In this episode, inmate Stacey Johnson and his family are attempting to get his execution stayed on the basis that DNA testing could prove his innocence. However, the daughter of Johnson's victim, who witnessed the murder, is fighting for the execution to go ahead so she can finally put her mother's death behind her.

We are also present at the clemency hearings for inmate Ledell Lee, who is scheduled to die on the same night as Johnson. We meet Lee's defense attorney, who is attempting to halt his client's execution on the basis that he didn't receive a fair trial. However, 24 years after the murder, Lee's original prosecuting attorney is still fighting for his execution to go ahead.

Episode Three

In this episode we meet Lynn Scott, the sister of death row inmate Jack Jones - the next prisoner in line to die. Jones has severe medical problems including diabetes, which led to him having a leg amputated in prison. Jones and his sister are worried that the number of medications he is on could mean the lethal injection drugs don't work properly, resulting in an agonizing death. However, the family of Jones's victim Mary Phillips say they have waited more than 20 years for the execution, and they are desperate for justice to be done.

We also meet inmate Marcel Williams who is on death row for the rape and murder of 22-year-old Stacy Rae Errickson. With only weeks to go before Williams's execution, his attorney Jason Kearney is fighting to save his client's life, arguing that Williams's original lawyers made serious mistakes during his trial. Kearney says these mistakes meant the jury didn't hear vital evidence that could still save him from execution.

Episode Four

Sorry – works only in the UK. Let me know if you have another link. Thank you.

In this episode, the family of murdered teenager John Melbourne Jr are fighting for the execution of death row inmate Jason McGehee to go ahead. McGehee's lawyers argue that his sentence is unjust, as he is only one out of a group of teenagers responsible for the murder. In fact, the person who actually took John's life is eligible for parole in 2025.

We also meet Kayla Greenwood, whose father Michael was murdered by death row inmate Kenneth Williams in a road traffic collision after he escaped from prison. In an extraordinary act of forgiveness, Kayla is desperate to reconnect the killer with the daughter, Jasmine, he hasn't seen for 17 years.

Life and death row - Punishment \(Part 2\)

Duration: 00:24 h

This film follows the trial of 26-year-old Guy Heinze Jr in Georgia, with remarkable access to the jury members charged with reaching a verdict on allegations that Heinze beat his father and seven members of his family to death. As the trial progresses, there is legal maneuvering while evidence about the brutal killings unfolds.

Life and death row - Crisis stage

By BBC 2014

Language: English

About Robert Pruett and Robert Garza, Texas

Duration: 00:57 h

The final film of the series follows 25-year-old legal student Kelly Hickman as she attempts to save two of the young killers facing execution in America.

Kelly volunteers at the University of Houston Death Penalty Clinic, a team of Texan students who help mount last-ditch legal appeals for killers on death row.

The team are working on two 'crisis cases' - cases where all of the offenders' normal legal appeals have failed and they are now just weeks away from execution.

Robert Pruett was sentenced to death for murdering a prison guard at the age of 20. He was already one of the youngest killers in the American prison system, having been sentenced to 99 years for his involvement in another murder at the age of 16.

Robert Garza was a member of the notorious Tri-City Bombers street gang and was sentenced to death at the age of 20 for his part in the drive-by killing of four young women.

As execution day dawns, Kelly feels frustratingly shut out of the legal process, confined to her office and following events over the internet and the phone as news filters through of an eleventh-hour intervention by the Supreme Court.
